

Recommended Books for Environmental Reading

Following is a selection of books and articles recommended by panelists at the December 4, 2022, PAHA program, A Climate of Unrest Gave Rise to the Environmental Movement

| Panelist | Recommendations |
|----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|--------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| Alice Kaufman Green Foothills | Braiding Sweetgrass by Robin Wall Kimmerer |
| Ana Ruiz Midpeninsula Regional Open Space District | Bay Nature Magazine https://baynature.org/product-category/subscriptions-renewals/ View (Midpen's newsletter) https://www.openspace.org/who-we-are/newsletters |
| Mike Williams Midpeninsula Regional Open Space District | 1491 by Charles C. Mann The Wild Trees by Richard Preston |
| Elliott Wright Environmental Volunteers | Braiding Sweetgrass by Robin Wall Kimmerer The Understory by M.E. Schuman |
| Catherine Martineau Canopy  | The Power of Trees by Gretchen Daily (Bing Professor of Environmental Science, Stanford University) The Overstory by Richard Powers (Received the 2019 Pulitzer Prize in fiction) Around the World in 80 Trees by Jonathan Drori (Catherine's comment: Beautifully illustrated) The Hidden Life of Trees by Peter Wohlleben (Speaks to the amazing, sometimes unbelievable science of trees and how they are interconnected) Trees in Paradise by Jared Farmer (California history through seminal tree species, wild and cultivated) A Californian's Guide to the Trees Among Us by Matt Ritter (Canopy's go-to guide) Wangari Maathai: The Woman Who Planted Millions of Trees by French author Franck Prévot and French illustrator Aurélia Fronty (Beautifully illustrated children's book) |
| Karen Holman Midpeninsula Regional Open Space District Board | A Country Year: Living the Questions by Sue Hubbell |